New Technologies and Domain Names

Legal advice on personal data protection, privacy, technology transfer and domain names.

• Personal Data Protection.

The privacy and legal use of personal data is nowadays fundamental. We handle the new data protection regulations, to help our clients evaluate and implement compliance with the data processing standards required for their business.

• Cybersecurity.

Compliance with cybersecurity regulations by the technological areas of companies is essential to establish business and long-term relationships with foreign or international companies. We advise our clients in the analysis, application, and compliance with such regulations.

• Technology Transfer.

Technology transfer requires new contractual forms that adapt to new times and digital formats. We create, draft, and analyze the appropriate instruments for our clients to protect their intangible assets, information, databases, business secrets and to buy or transfer technology in its various forms.

• Domain Names.

Domain names are tools for the correct location of companies and individuals in the commercial platforms offered by the Internet. Their registration before NIC Chile admits revocation actions that derive in arbitration trials, which we process on behalf of our clients, including previous negotiations and alternative outlets or transactions.
